Clark, Siwula to lead Chamber retail group

LoAl Clark, newly-appointed Retail Committee chairman of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, is looking ahead to a year of cooperation to make the committee

Using old and new ideas will help to obtain that goal, Ms. Clark said.

Ms. Clark and Susan Siwula, co-chairman of the committee, first became acquainted with the Chamber when they began running the Park Ave. Gallery card and gift shop.

THE TWO ARE sisters, "so that makes it super nice," Ms. Clark said. They take turns alternating work days at the store and are pleased they have been chosen to work together, she added.

The two were appointed by Chamber President Bill Bishoff and First Vice President Dan Dugenske.

"I hope I can do the community good and will try my best," Ms. Clark said.

Mrs. Siwula added that she is "looking forward to a good and prosperous year. PLANS FOR THE year begin with stressing attendance at the committee's meetings, Ms. Clark said. She is asking that a members be represented at six of the twelve meetings throughout the year.

Ms. Clark is also looking forward to meeting more people and listening to their ideas.

Her plans are to do the best job she can for a year, then take a break from the chairmanship and possibly return to the position, she said.

Ms. Clark held up the example of Bishoff as an active Chamber member. "If all members are as on the ball as he is, we would have a good team, and that's what we're looking for," she said.

Public hearing for assessment is Oct. 17

An ordinance proposing a public hearing on placing special assessments on properties in the downtown area will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 29 in the village hall.

The proposal is being considered in an effort to improve Antioch's business district.

Properties on Orchard St., Hillside Ave. and Lake St. will receive the assessment if the ordinance is approved.

Library burns mortgage, pays tribute to Mrs. Vos

by JANE POLZIN

As the Antioch Township Library mortgage was set afire, Louise Vos concluded a career as long-time library board member and president at a testimonial and retirement dinner in her honor.

"It is very heartwarming to see how the library has grown and how many children have used it," said the woman who has seen the library through four of its seven moves.

Mrs. Vos was president for 35 of the 47 years she served on the board. She retired this summer after moving to Harbor Ridge, which lies outside of the library district.

The first library was started by six members of the Antioch Woman's Club in 1921. It began with a few shelves of books placed in Walter Chinn's newspaper and magazine shop, where the first National Bank was formerly located on Lake St.

HOMEMADE CANDY was sold in the lobby of the Antioch Theater to meet initial expenses, while citizens donated reading In 1937 the collection became the

The library's next location was in the village hall, where voices from the jail in the basement below could sometimes be heard.

The clanging of fire bells and the cry of the alarm added to the excitement and confusion of the location.

Mrs. W.W. Warriner, president of the Woman's Club, led citizens in establishing the collection's new home. Card parties were held to raise funds for a table, chairs and shelving.

WOMEN TOOK TURNS as librarians until around 1924, when Mary Stanley took the position.

The first library board was organized in 1926 when Antioch residents voted to make it a village library. The first board members were Elmer Brook, Mrs. Oliver Matthews, Dr. R.D. Williams, Frank King, Mrs. John Brogan and Mrs. W.W. Warriner.

Soon after, a levy amounting to $634.52 was approved and bylaws were adopted.

Just after the stock market crashed in 1929, the library settled into a room behind the kindergarten classroom at the Antioch Grade School.

MRS. VOS became a library board member in 1932, joining Frank R. King, Edna Warriner, Nellie Brogan, Dr. R.D. Williams and Mr. G.O. Whitmore.

In 1937 the collection became the Antioch Township Library by a vote of township residents.

When the school found it needed the library's space the next year, Mrs. Vos and other board members found out what an enormous task relocating was.

Fire building agreement discussed

An agreement between the fire safety district and the village concerning the new Fire Safety Building was discussed at a committee meeting of the Antioch Village Board.

The board decided to recommend that the mayor sign the agreement, which would "put into words what the board verbally agreed to right along," said Fire Chief Tod Maplethorpe.

The agreement calls for a management comittee consisting of three members of the village board and two members of the fire district. The number of committee members will alternate between the district and the village annually, he added.

Library burns mortgage

"Moving from one place to another was a big job," Mrs. Vos said, but building the present edifice, whose concept would not be realized for 33 years, would be the biggest task of all.

A LONG FLIGHT of stairs led to the library's next home, above what is now the Piggy Bank and Little Nut Hut and Sweet Shop. Because of the compartment-like rooms and the forbidding staircase, the board searched for a first floor location with more space.

Volunteers helped move the library to the first floor of the Masonic Building, currently Polson's Dietary Foods, in 1941.

In 1950, the former home and property of Edgar B. Williams was donated to the library by Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder.

As the result of a donation from the estate of Mr. and Mrs. C.K. Anderson, Mrs. Schroeder's parents, another move was made, necessary remodeling was completed and an open house was held.

SHELVING SOON OVERTOOK seating space as the collection continued to expand. In May 1965, a referendum was passed to begin a building program fund.

An application for a federal building grant the state of the s was approved in 1968 and under the leadership of Mrs. Vos, board president, a loan from the First National Bank of Antioch was secured in February, 1969. The last payment was to be due in February, 1984. In what became a community-wide effort, private citizens and community organizations also made donations.

Work began on the new building in January 1969 and by February 1970 the big move into the library's new home began, again with volunteer help.

By March the library was open to the public, but because of a delay in receiving equipment, the open house wasn't held until September.

By investing money as it payed its $13,333.33 mortgage payments, the library district made more money than it had to pay in interest, reported Mel Knirsch, board president.

At the dinner in her honor, Mrs. Vos was awarded a plaque and a lifetime library

Although she has no plans to continue work in the library district into which she has relocated, Mrs. Vos is remaining active in community service by managing Antioch's Mental Health Assn. Thrift Shop on Main St.

Solution sought to salt problem

Three solutions to a shortage of salt for treating icy streets were presented at a committee meeting of the Antioch Village Board.

"We're out on a limb for salt this year," said Supervisor of Public Works Walter Shepard. "Either there isn't any or the price is astronomical," he added.

The solution the board found most favorable was purchasing equipment sand with calcium chloride. The equipment would help to freezing. melt snow and provide trac-

Although we both have insurance, he doesn't want to use his coverage. Will mine work as well?

No. If there was collision insurance on the car damaged in the accident that is the policy which must be used. Regardless of your uncle's desires, your company should pay only if the owner of the car has no insurance. So, if he refuses to use his insurance and your insurance will not cover the damage in this instance, obviously you will be faced with the problem of paying the costs out of your own funds or falling into disfavor with your relative.

Richard Carlson, 14 and Dan Lightsen, 13, were arrested last Thursday by the McHenry police and brought here to the jail on a charge of larceny. The two Chicago youths told Sheriff Bau they hitched rides from Chicago to Long Lake where they broke into the cottage of P.J. Birchoff and took a supply of canned goods, coffee, sugar and four blankets. They then stole a canoe and proceeded on the Fox River, past Johnsburg, to the dam at McHenry where they portaged the canoe. About 1,000 feet past the dam they pulled ashore.

The teens then broke into the J.J. Hughes Ridge Snack Bar and took cigarettes, pop, cigars, candy and gum. They slept the night some 50 feet from the Hughes place and when they got up started a fire and cooked breakfast. They got in the cance and were ready to push off when Hughes told them to come back and put out the fire. It was about this time he noticed his place was broken into and held the lads while he called the police who came and arrested them.

We already have enough coal lined up to last until 2020.

Nearly a billion tons of it. Enough to provide electricity until well into the next century, based on our projected fuel mix. We own much of it, waiting to mine it when we need it.

And we will need it. Because by the end of this century, the demand for electricity is expected to triple. Our coal will help meet that demand.

But it's also doing something else very important. It's helping conserve scarce fuels: oil and natural gas.

Over half of the electricity we make comes from coal and most of the rest comes from uranium. Both are abundant fuels. Last year these fuels provided us with energy equal to 100,000,000 barrels of oil.

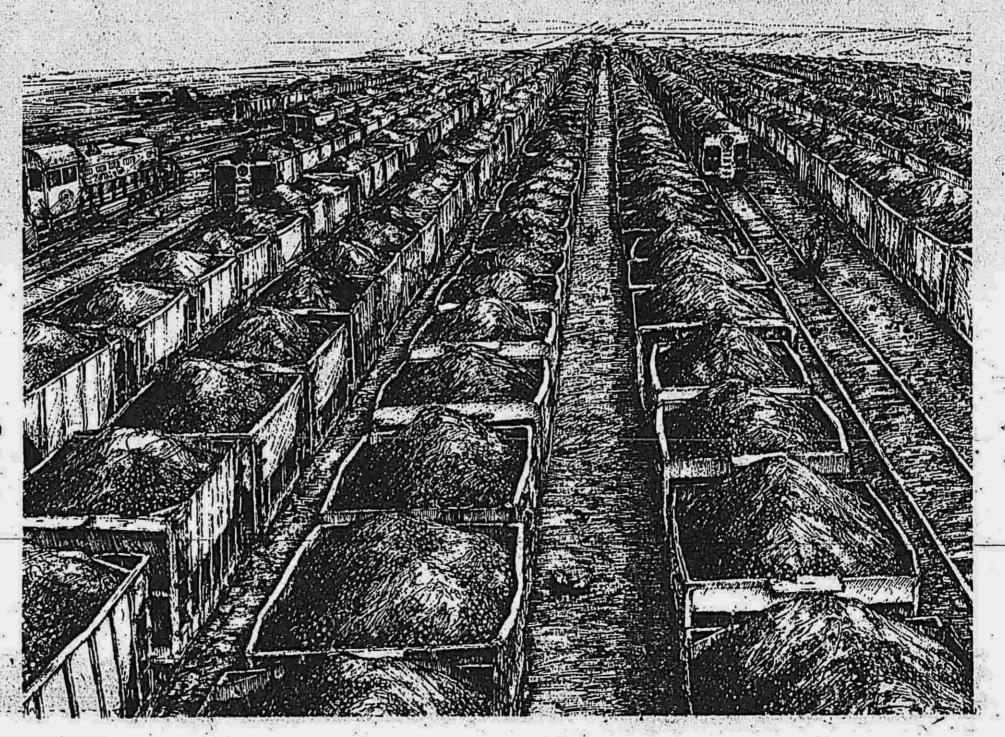

Coal is one important reason we can call electricity the Conservation Energy. It's one way we can make sure there will always be enough electricity.

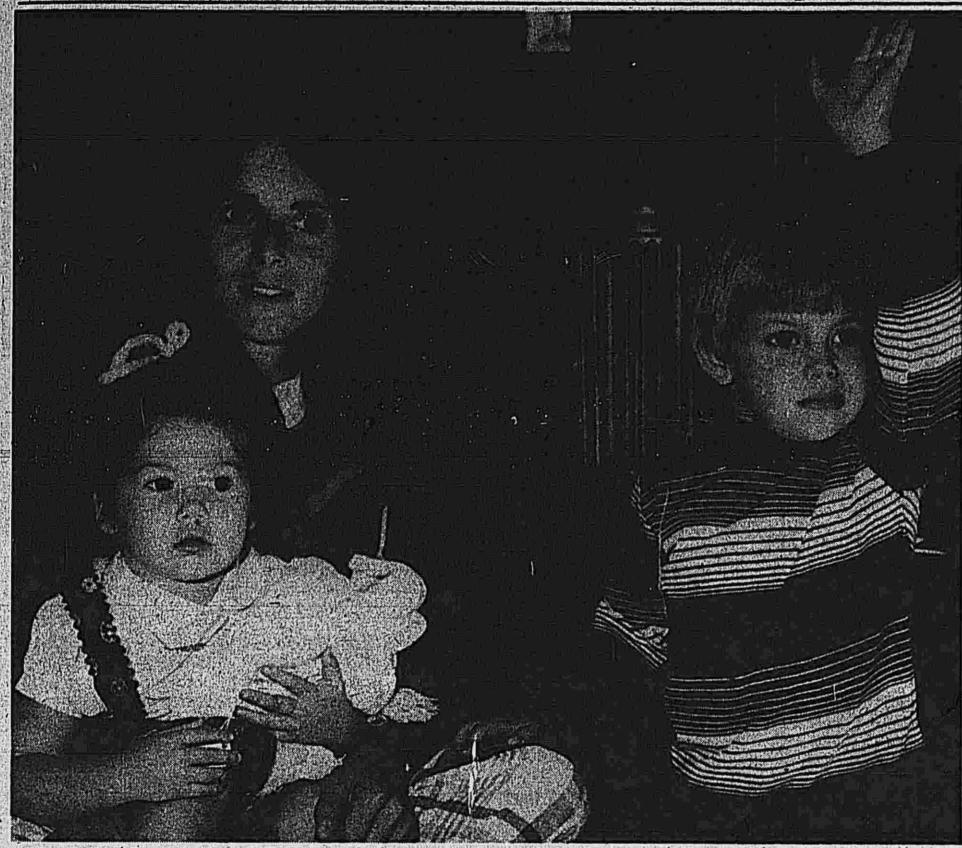

Commonwealth Edison electricity is made mostly from abundant coal and uranium. That helps conserve the scarce fuels: oil and gas.

Heavyweights drop to 2-1

The Antioch Viking Heavyweights team went into Waukegan with a 2-0 record, but after the dust had settled they were 2-1 in league play, dropping a 7-6 decision in a closely contested game.

Each week you read about the super talents of the football players, but this week we would like to mention the enthusiasm and skill performed by the heavyweight team cheerleaders: Lisa Bell, Susan Cigrang, Joyce Derring, Jeanette Henning, Tammy Perryman, and Karolyn Richter.

Last week the Antioch Viking Heavyweights beat the Highland Park Giants 26-
